Symposium on Rethinking Health Risks and Equity

Biographical Information of the U.S. Delegation
(Speakers and Moderators)

MELVIN A. KOHN, MD, MPH
俄勒岡州公共衛生署 署長

Dr. Melvin Kohn has served as the State Health Officer and Director of the State Public Health Division since 2008. Dr. Kohn oversees a budget of more than 525 million dollars per year for Oregon's public health efforts in preventing unnecessary illness, death and disability, improving the health status of Oregon's communities and reducing the need for costly illness care for all the people in Oregon.

Previously he served as State Epidemiologist and administrator of the Department of Human Services Office of Disease Prevention and Epidemiology. He has worked in the public health sector since 1993, including two years as an Epidemic Intelligence Service Officer for the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. Before joining DHS in 1999, Dr. Kohn was Medical Director for the Louisiana Office of Public Health in New Orleans where he was also an assistant professor of Pediatrics at Tulane University School of Medicine.

Dr. Kohn also provides active leadership in public health boards and organizations. In addition to directing public health in Oregon, he leads the Council of State and Territorial Epidemiologists and serves as the Chairman of the board at the Northwest Health Foundation.

Dr. Kohn received a B.A. in Russian and East European Studies from Yale University, took pre-med courses at Columbia University, received his medical degree from Harvard University. He received his Masters in Public Health (MPH) from Tulane School of Public Health and Tropical Medicine. Dr. Kohn completed his internship and residency in pediatrics at the Children's Hospital in Boston, completed a preventive medicine residency at Oregon Health and Sciences University, and is board-certified in pediatrics and preventive medicine.

MARY C. SELECKY
華盛頓州衛生署 署長

Mary Selecky has been serving as Secretary of the Washington State Department of Health for 12 years since March 1999, serving under Governor Chris Gregoire and former Governor Gary Locke. Secretary Selecky is one of the longest serving health secretaries among the 50 states in the U.S.

In 1989, Secretary Selecky helped create the state's Department of Health, which she now leads. She was also instrumental in developing Washington's nationally recognized Public Health Improvement Partnership.

Prior to working for the state, Secretary Selecky had 20-year tenure as administrator of the Northeast Tri-County Health District in Colville, Washington. Coming from one of Washington's most rural areas, she is keenly aware of the unique challenges facing rural communities. Throughout her career, Secretary Selecky has been a leader in developing local, state and national public health policies. She has served for two terms as the president of the Association of State and Territorial Health Officials, receiving the 2004 McCormack Award for excellence in public health. In 2010, Secretary Selecky received the American Medical Association's Nathan Davis Award for Outstanding Government Service. She is a past president of the Washington State Association of Local Public Health Officials; she also served on the Board of Directors of the National Association of City and County Health Official.

On a statewide level, Secretary Selecky has made tobacco prevention and control, patient safety, nutrition and physical activity, and emergency preparedness her top priorities. Secretary Selecky is known for bringing people and organizations together to improve the public health system and the health of people in Washington. She graduated from the University of Pennsylvania with a degree in political science and history, and has been a resident of Washington for 36 years.

MODERATORS 主持人

PIKUEI TU

美國杜克大學 政策與組織管理研究中心 主任

Dr. Pikuei Tu is director of the Policy and Organizational Management Program at Duke University. Duke University is world-renown for its excellence in education, research, and medical care. It is ranked as a top five university in the U.S. The Policy and Organizational Management Program develops and conducts research projects with academic, public and private institutions, and provides customized executive education and research to ranking international government officials and private enterprises on a range of topics, e.g., human resources, public management, leadership, global health, quality and performance evaluation, relationship marketing, organizational behavior, quantitative methods, and education. The unique approach of comprehensively integrating a variety of disciplines and methodologies in teaching, research, exchange, and practice is a distinctive feature of the Program. With a myriad of first rate resources and faculty, the Program brings together prominent scholars and practitioners in diversified disciplines from both private and governmental organizations at the state, federal, and international levels to provide the best integrated and customized curriculum.

Dr. Tu has extensive experience in designing custom programming and in working directly with international dignitaries such as former Presidents of Mexico, Argentina, and Colombia, and Constitution Justice of South Africa, and several U.S. ambassadors. Dr. Tu's research interests include a wide range of issues on international development policy, public sector management challenges, and leadership theories and practices. She has taught courses and seminars on research methods, knowledge management, leadership theories, strategic planning for senior public managers, and reform options for developing countries. Dr. Tu is also involved in public service in the local area; she serves on the Personnel Appeals Committee and the Pay Plan Review Committee at the City of Chapel Hill in North Carolina. She also serves as an external advisor to the Environmental Quality Protection Foundation.

Dr. Tu received her doctorate in educational leadership with a concentration on organizations and social behavior at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and holds master's degrees in international development policy from Duke University and an MBA with food and agribusiness focus from Santa Clara University.
